

Company Van Legislation

In April 2007, the 'benefit-in-kind' tax charge on company vans soared from £500.00 to a massive £3,500.00 unless you can prove that the van is only used for business and not personal use.

The Employer has to provide proof of use to satisfy the Inland Revenue that employees do not have unrestricted private use of company vehicles. The only way of doing this is to provide them with a daily account of where the vehicle has been and at what time.

You need to consider the benefits of vehicle tracking technology to present unequivocal evidence of when, where and how a vehicle has been used. Please do not forget the other advantage of vehicle, Plant and Van Tracking.
